

British Croatian Chamber of Commerce

28 September 2006

The Lunch Reception with the British ambassador to Croatia H.E. Sir John Ramsden

The Ambassador has addressed the audience from the British and Croatian businesses and informed them about the current most important policies in the Croatian strategy for the economy and finances and about the present situation regarding Croatia's application for EU membership

He has also stressed the importance of the British Croatian Chamber of Commerce exchanging the ideas with other similar organizations for example British Croatian Business Network in Zagreb, which he draw the parallels with and reflected on the synergy between the two.

In closing The Ambassador expressed confidence in the future positive trend in the growth of the economy and the political stability of Croatia and in developing of positive relationship between the two countries

The guests have afterwards enjoyed a lovely lunch served at the Academy restaurant, owned by Mr Darko Luger who is also a Croatian

Delectable British wines were on the menu to accompany the array of delicacies.
